in this book the expansion of human right legislation in national and international law is examined from theoretical and comparative perspectives today the majority of the armed conflicts around the world are fought between states and armed groups rather than between states this changed conflict landscape creates an imperative to clarify the obligations of armed groups under international law while it is generally accepted that armed groups are bound by international humanitarian law the question of whether they are also bound by human rights law is controversial this book brings significant new understanding to the question of whether and when armed groups might be bound by human rights law its conclusions will benefit international law academics legal practitioners and political scientists and anthropologists working on issues related to rebel governance and civil wars this book addresses the debate on this topic by employing a theoretical historical and comparative analysis that spans international humanitarian law international criminal law and international human rights law embedding these different perspectives in public international law this book brings several key points of clarification to the legal framework firstly the book draws upon social science literature on armed conflict to present a new viewpoint on the role that human rights law plays vis à vis international humanitarian law in non international armed conflicts secondly the book sheds light on the circumstances in which armed groups acquire obligations under human rights law it brings illumination to these topics by combining historical and comparative research on belligerency insurgency and international humanitarian law with a theoretical analysis of legal personality under international law in the final part of the book the author tests the four most utilised theories of how armed groups are bound by human rights law examining whether armed groups can be bound by virtue of i treaty law ii control of territory iii international criminal law and iv customary international law in the book s conclusions the author presents final remarks that are designed to provide concrete guidance on how the issue of armed groups and human rights law can be dealt with more thoroughly in practice rather than serving as civilian and humanitarian safe havens refugee camps are notorious for their insecurity due to the host state s inability or unwillingness to provide protection camps are often administered by the united nations high commissioner for refugees unhcr and its implementing partners when a violation occurs in these situations to which actors shall responsibility be allocated through an analysis of the international law commission's work on international responsibility Maja Janmyr argues that the primary responsibility of states does not exclude the responsibilities of other actors using the example of Uganda Janmyr questions the general assumption that unable and unwilling is the same as unable or unwilling and argues for the necessity of distinguishing between these two scenarios doing so leads to different conclusions in terms of responsibility for the state and therefore for UNHCR and its implementing partners

this publication takes up the fundamental question what is law through a comparative study of canon law and secular legal theory the book also includes comparative consideration of the failure of canon law to address the clergy sexual abuse crisis the canon law of marriage administrative law the rule of law and much more this book provides a key reference on the role of the commonwealth and its member states in relation to international humanitarian law ihl it provides insights in the implementation of ihl in commonwealth states and particularly the challenges faced by small states it examines the progressive development of ihl in the commonwealth and provides an analysis of some of the landmark decisions emerging from the special court for sierra leone the book was developed collaboratively between the commonwealth secretariat and the international red cross and red crescent movement in this regard it contains insights in the work of the secretariat with regard to implementation of ihl and an assessment of legislation enacted by commonwealth states as well as an accession chart to ihl instruments it expounds on the work of the movement including the role of national societies the international humanitarian fact finding commission and the development of international disaster response law rules and regulation this book was based on a special issue of commonwealth law bulletin
