the past forty years have seen a wide proliferation of disputes under international law concerning cultural heritage these have included the restitution of stolen art objects or the protection of monuments unlike other fields of international law international cultural heritage law does not have an ad hoc mechanism of dispute settlement as a result controversies are to be settled through negotiation or if it fails through existing dispute resolution means this can result in similar cases being settled in different ways thereby bringing about an incoherent and fragmentary enforcement of the law this book offers a comprehensive and innovative analysis of the settlement of cultural heritage disputes this examination is two fold first it assesses the existing legal framework and the available dispute settlement means second it explores the feasibility of two solutions for overcoming the lack of a specialized forum the first is the establishment of a new international court the second concerns existing judicial and extra judicial fora and their interaction through the practice of cross fertilization the book focuses on the substance of such interaction and identifies a number of culturally sensitive parameters the common rules of adjudication it argues that existing judicial and non judicial fora should adopt a cross fertilizing perspective to use and disseminate jurisprudence containing these common rules of adjudication it sets out how such an approach would enhance the effectiveness and coherence of decision making processes and would be conducive to the development of a lex culturalis this can be defined as a composite body of rules designed to protect cultural heritage by excluding the mechanical application of the norms established for standard business transactions of ordinary goods the re emergence of the city from the long shadow of the state in the late twentieth century was facilitated by the state itself the unprecedented size and scale of today s global cities and mega cities owe their conditions of possibility to a fundamental shift in the character of political order at the level of the international system this book argues that we must understand the rise of the global city as part of a wider process of the transformation of international political order and of the character of international society global cities are an inscription of the ideals of a market society in space constructed and defended at the level of international society they embody the ascendance of a set of liberal principles at a certain moment in history a moment related to the hegemonic status of leading states in the second half of the twentieth century and the ability of those states to shape international norms but the evolution of these urban forms has also reflected the tendency for deregulated markets to generate inequality and polarisation these features are also inscribed in the spaces of global cities global cities focus and amplify the tensions and contradictions within the contemporary international system and become key strategic sites for struggles over social justice and the character of political life in the twenty first century global cities and global order demonstrates the significance of the re emergence of cities from the long shadow of the nation state is far reaching only by examining the mechanisms by which cities have become empowered in the last few decades can we understand their new functions and capabilities in global politics
