early american painter gilbert stuart has long been mistakenly represented as a hard drinking rogue habitual liar and inexplicable financial failure to explain his stylistic unevenness as an artist he is assumed to have had an inferior assistant but the documentary evidence for an assistant who painted on his portraits is non existent in fact there is evidence to the contrary this ground breaking study demonstrates that stuart suffered from a hereditary form of manic depression leading him to create pictures that contain peculiar lapses characteristic of a manic depressive or bipolar artist using documentary and empirical evidence from diaries and letters to x radiographs of paintings this book fills important gaps in our knowledge of stuart and connects the strange visual effects in some of stuart s paintings with cognitive deficits attendant with the disorder in addition to stuart other bipolar artists including george romney raphaelle peale gilbert stuart newton and william rimmer are discussed in relation to these deficits revealing patterns which carry broader implications for all manic depressive artists this volume is a significant contribution not only to studies of stuart and the four other painters but also to our understanding of the mind of a manic depressive artist it bridges the broad disciplines of art history and psychopathology with his trademark interest in the daily rituals of womankind and his richly textured appreciation of the garments of seduction stuart presents photographic representations of desire that don t slip into the tired stereotypes of pornography or degrading portrayals james stuart was one of the most remarkable natalians of his day though there was nothing outwardly spectacular about his career as a colonial official in 25 years of single minded labour he built up what is now regarded as the most valuable collection of african oral traditions in existence in southern africa as a magistrate in some of the remotest corners of the natal colony in the 1890s and early 1900s stuart sought out old people who remembered the times of dingane and mpande and whose fathers and mothers had been ruled by shaka interviewing them in fluent zulu he painstakingly filled hundreds of notebooks with their reminiscences and the traditions which older generations had handed down to them the statements which stuart recorded from nearly 200 informants are now housed together with his own writings on zulu customs language and praise poetry in the killie campbell africana library in durban since 1971 the department of historical and political studies at the university of natal pietermaritzburg has been engaged in a project which aims to publish all the historical evidence collected by stuart
