a militant marxist atheist and a radical orthodox christian theologian square off on everything from the meaning of theology and christ to the war machine of corporate mafia what matters is not so much that Žižek is endorsing a demythologized disenchanted christianity without transcendence as that he is offering in the end despite what he sometimes claims a heterodox version of christian belief john milbank to put it even more bluntly my claim is that it is milbank who is effectively guilty of heterodoxy ultimately of a regression to paganism in my atheism i am more christian than milbank slavoj Žižek in this corner philosopher slavoj Žižek a militant atheist who represents the critical materialist stance against religion s illusions in the other corner radical orthodox theologian john milbank an influential and provocative thinker who argues that theology is the only foundation upon which knowledge politics and ethics can stand in the monstrosity of christ Žižek and milbank go head to head for three rounds employing an impressive arsenal of moves to advance their positions and press their respective advantages by the closing bell they have not only proven themselves worthy adversaries they have shown that faith and reason are not simply and intractably opposed Žižek has long been interested in the emancipatory potential offered by christian theology and milbank seeing global capitalism as the new century s greatest ethical challenge has pushed his own ontology in more political and materialist directions their debate in the monstrosity of christ concerns the future of religion secularity and political hope in light of a monsterful event god becoming human for the first time since Žižek s turn toward theology we have a true debate between an atheist and a theologian about the very meaning of theology christ the church the holy ghost universality and the foundations of logic the result goes far beyond the popularized atheist theist point counterpoint of recent books by christopher hitchens richard dawkins and others Žižek begins and milbank answers countering dialectics with paradox the debate centers on the nature of and relation between paradox and parallax between analogy and dialectics between transcendent glory and liberation slavoj Žižek is a philosopher and cultural critic he has published over thirty books including looking awry the puppet and the dwarf and the parallax view these three published by the mit press john milbank is an influential christian theologian and the author of theology and social theory beyond secular reason and other books creston davis who conceived of this encounter studied under both Žižek and milbank slavoj Žižek's critical engagement with christian theology goes much further than his seminal The Fragile Absolute 2000 or his The Puppet and the Dwarf 2003 or even his discussion with noted theologian John Milbank in The Monstrosity of Christ 2009 his reading of christianity utilising his signature elements of lacanian psychoanalysis and hegelian philosophy with modern philosophical currents can be seen as a genuinely original contribution to the philosophy of religion this book focuses on these aspects of Žižek's thought with either philosophy and cultural theory or christian theology serving as starting points of enquiry written by a panel of international contributors each chapter teases out various strands of Žižek's thought concerning christianity and religion and brings them into a wider conversation about the nature of faith these essays show that far from being an outright rejection of christian thought and intellectual heritage Žižek's work could be seen as a perverse affirmation thereof thus what he has to say should be of direct interest to christian theology itself touching on thinkers such as badiou lacan chesterton and schelling this collection is a dynamic reading and re reading of Žižek's relationship to christianity as such scholars of theology the philosophy of religion and Žižek more generally will all find this book to be of great interest one of our most daring intellectuals offers a lacanian interpretation of religion finding that early christianity was the first revolutionary collective slavoj Žižek has been called an academic rock star and the wild man of theory his writing mixes astonishing erudition and references to pop culture in order to dissect current intellectual pieties in the puppet and the dwarf he offers a close reading of today's religious constellation from the viewpoint of lacanian psychoanalysis he critically confronts both predominant versions of today's spirituality new age gnosticism and deconstructionist levinasian judaism and then tries to redeem the materialist kernel of christianity his reading of christianity is explicitly political discerning in the pauline community of believers the first version of a revolutionary collective since today even advocates of enlightenment like jurgen habermas acknowledge that a religious vision is needed to ground our ethical and political stance in a postsecular age this book with a stance that is clearly materialist and at the same time indebted to the core of the christian legacy is certain to stir controversy
